DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 9/10/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Glaser does not teach multiplexing as claimed in claims 1 and 2, i.e., multiplexing means for multiplexing the audio digital data of the plurality of audio broadcasts. Examiner disagrees. Glaser discloses in general operation, a receiver 300 with receives transmitted data signals from a communication line 130. This transmitted data may be multiplexed in the switch control, see Fig. 10 and page 4 [0046] and page 13 [0101].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-2 and 57-58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Glaser et al. (Glaser), US Pub. No. 2006/0271989.

4. Regarding claim 1, Glaser discloses a transmitting apparatus, comprising: a plurality of audio channel material supplying means for supplying a plurality of audio broadcast materials of audio digital data; data supplying means for supplying digital data for an audio information screen corresponding to a transmitted audio broadcast, said digital data including interactive GUI data used to generate an interactive on-screen display to allow interaction between the user and the display; download audio data supplying means for supplying download audio data compressed in a predetermined compressing format; multiplexing means for multiplexing the audio digital data of the plurality of audio broadcasts, the digital data for the audio information screen corresponding to the transmitted audio broadcast, and the download audio data; and transmitting means for repeatedly transmitting the multiplexed data within a program period (page 2 [0013] page 3 [0033,0036], page 11 [0088] and page 12 [0099] and page 14 [0108] and Fig. 8A).

Regarding claims 57 and 58, Glaser discloses the transmitting apparatus and method of claim 1, wherein said audio digital data has a first sound quality (i.e., reads on normal quality data) and the download audio data has a second sound quality (i.e., reads on high quality requested data) that is of superior quality to the first sound quality, see page 12 [0098].

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
